ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. — Dorothy Donnelly and Clara Lamore Walker renewed a rivalry that began in the 1940s yesterday at the U.S. Masters Swimming National Long Course Championships.

Walker, 65, set a world record — her 51st in Masters competition — in the 65-69-year-old division 200-meter freestyle with a time of 2 minutes, 56.88 seconds at the E'town Swim and Fitness Center. Donnelly, 69, was second in 3:30.

It was their final competitive confrontation for at least five years because Donnelly will move on to the 70-75 division next year, but it is not the end of the longstanding friendship that began when they were top swimmers on rival New England clubs.

For more than a decade, the two have ventured around the globe to the Masters events. Most Masters swimmers range from 30 to 50 years old, but there is no age limit.

"The Masters is the most wonderful thing that has ever come along," said Donnelly, executive director of U.S. Masters Swimming (USMS). "It's a joy; it's a new family. The camaraderie is just beyond peer."

The Masters brought Donnelly, who lives in Rutland, Mass., and Walker, of Cranston, R.I., together after a 20-year separation. In 1980, a bad back sent Walker back to swimming, a sport she had abandoned 32 years earlier. Walker did it first for fitness, but then the competitive bug bit her again.

In Walker's first Masters meet, she rekindled her relationship with Donnelly, who has been involved with the Masters circuit since it was formed in 1971.

"She's just incredible," Donnelly said of Walker, who has nearly 30 more world records than her nearest Masters competitor. "She can diversify. She's good at every stroke."

Donnelly is multi-talented as well. In 1940, she qualified in three events for the Helsinki Olympics, which subsequently were canceled because of World War II.

"She's my mentor; she still thinks I'm a little kid," Walker said.

When she retired, Donnelly gave her good friend and protégé the swimsuit she had worn in earning a spot on the United States team in the 100- and 400-yard freestyle events and the 400-yard relay.

"It was a little much to spend, $65 for a silk suit," Donnelly said. "They didn't pay for things like that back then. I wasn't going to be using it, so I gave it to her."

Walker wore it in qualifying for the 1948 London Olympics, where she finished fourth in the 200-yard breaststroke.

"She's the one who really made it work," Donnelly said. "But I never want her to know that it wasn't the suit. She thinks it was."

Walker, who hopes to break four more world records by the time the meet ends tomorrow, doesn't like to lose. Neither does Donnelly, although she claims to have a more relaxed attitude in the pool.

"I'm much more laid-back," Donnelly said. "Clara's still very focused and determined when she gets on the starting block."

Said Walker: "She's very low-key and very, very social. She's all over the place. But she's different when she's on the blocks. I'm not like her outside the pool. I'm not real social; I just go into a corner."

Despite their different personalities, however, Donnelly and Walker are in each other's corner when the starting gun is fired. Their love of swimming and for each other has endured a half-century. There's no question it will continue.

"When I swim, she's in my lane cheering," Walker said. "And when she swims, I'm in her lane."

"We're close, close friends," Donnelly said. "We always will be."
